who we are

Mirce Engineering specialises in developing people, processes, methods, tools and techniques for life cycle engineering and management.

Our business is about providing advanced professional development, technical services, software and other facilities to enhance our customer's capability to engineer and manage products and processes over their entire life cycle from requirement and specification through manufacture, operation, maintenance and support to retirement and disposal.

We are a dynamic knowledge-based organisation committed to innovation with practical application.

Our knowledge and experience enables us to work in partnership with our customers to provide permanent solutions rather than short-term initiatives.

We are leaders in innovative cutting-edge products and services that focus on –

- Reliability
- Maintainability
- Supportability
- Availability and Operational Reliability
- Human Performance
- Cost and Economics
- Logistic Support
- Maintenance
